Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 07 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cold with icy stretches for many and snow for some .

This Evening and Tonight:
Outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow and icy patches affecting parts of England and Wales. Southeastern England mainly dry whilst snow showers catch parts of Northern Ireland and northern Scotland.

Friday:
Outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow continuing over parts of England and Wales. Southeastern England mainly dry whilst snow showers catch parts of Northern Ireland and northern Scotland. Feeling cold.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Heavy rain, some mountain snow and fresh to strong winds arriving across north-west Scotland, slowly moving south. Dry and cold with sunny spells, lighter winds, and freezing fog patches elsewhere.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.